

Ross Woodworking opened its doors in 2001 with a commitment to running a woodshop in a more environmentally friendly way. We are passionate about the art of woodworking, and equally passionate about protecting and using our natural resources in a sustainable way. Our primary products include fine furniture, custom entry doors, and custom architectural pieces. In our shop we re-use and reinvent our wood cutoffs and scrap and turn them into a variety of small wooden objects. Many of the smaller wood pieces you see from our shop are third and fourth generation use of raw material. There is no waste, even our sawdust and wood shavings are returned to nature as mulch or compost.

Keep an eye out for our woodworking creations at local fundraisers, charity events and with exclusive local vendors. You will likely see items like, beautiful solid wood cutting boards, elegant wooden boxes, serving trays, old fashion wooden toys, turned vases, and a wide variety of unique wooden objects.

Thanks to all the people that support us and join in our effort to promote good stewardship of our natural environment.

Sincerely,
Adam Ross – Owner
